Shannon Currey is a horticultural educator and consultant with Izel Native Plants.

Shannon currently serves on the Perennial Plant Association's Board of Directors and the North Carolina Plant Conservation Scientific Committee. She was honored in 2020 with the Libby Wilder Award from the North Carolina Nursery & Landscape Association.

In 2022, she joined Izel Native Plants to expand their education and outreach efforts. An online retailer for native plants, Izel helps consumers source plants to create environmentally sound landscapes that support local ecosystems. Shannon is based in Durham, North Carolina and loves exploring the incredible plant diversity around her.
